

UK: Royal Introduction for Tidal Transit

Posted on Jul 26th, 2012 with tags europe, For, introduction, News by topic, Royal, Tidal, Transit, UK.

Tidal Transit Commercial Director Leo Hambro was among representatives from the wider community who meet His Royal Highness Prince Andrew, the Duke of York when he visited the Scira Offshore Energy base in Wells-next-the-Sea, Norfolk on 24 July 2012.

Scira Offshore Energy will operate the 88 turbine Sheringham Shoal Offshore Wind farm once it is completed later this year. During his visit His Royal Highness was briefed about the Sheringham Shoal Offshore Wind Farm and other large developments planned for the southern North Sea before meeting with representatives from the wider community including local landowners, those involved in education and training, the fishing industry, members of the north Norfolk Renewables Group, Harbour Commissioners as well as owners of local businesses.

Offshore WIND staff, July 26, 2012; Image: tidal-transit